DUFF'S WHISKEY GUIDE

Here at Duff's we are passionate about Whiskey, so much so that we have created our very own Duff's Whiskey Guide. A dedicated menu that offers a varied and wide selection of the finest whiskeys from Ireland.

All you need to do is make your choice, sit back, and enjoy!

We will continuously be updating our menu with new whiskeys, so be sure to come back and see our new offerings.

HISTORY OF IRISH WHISKEY

Whiskey is a spirit distilled from malted grain, including barley, rye, wheat & corn. Once distilled, it is typically aged in wooden casks of oak from where it draws its characteristic chemical composition, taste and particular nose.

'Uisce beatha' is Gaelic for Whiskey, which translates to 'the water of life' and its meaning harps back to the original 'medicinal' nature of its production.

Irish whiskeys are normally triple distilled, and by law, must be produced in Ireland, aged in wooden casks for a period of no less than three years and bottled in Ireland. Irish whiskeys fall into one of several types: single malt, single grain, blended and pure pot still whiskey.

Ask a member of our team for advice or try one of our Duff's Whiskey Flights to sample a few of our top whiskey choices.

DUFF'S WHISKEY FLIGHTS

3 x 20ml servings

If whiskey tasting is a relatively new experience for you, try one of our carefully selected whiskey flights! Each whiskey flight offers a small tasting of 3 different whiskeys, that allows you to compare the flavour profiles and learn more about the distilling process.

Our flights showcase some of our favourite whiskey distillers in Ireland and have been chosen to give great whiskey tasting experiences. Compare styles, age statements and many other variables.

Ask our staff about our current whiskey flight offers.
